

Our Connectional Stories

BOARD OF ORDAINED MINISTRY

Isaiah Project

While I was in my second year at Duke Divinity School, I heard about the idea to provide internships for college and seminary students who felt called to ministry in The Kentucky Annual Conference of The United Methodist Church. I had participated in ministry internships before that had helped me discern my own call to ministry, but none of them had been in my home state which was where I felt called. It was exciting to know that I could serve in my home state to build relationships with other pastors and laity that I planned on being in ministry with the rest of my life.

The summer of 2009, I was in the first group of Isaiah Project Interns. My placement was in the Conference Offices working with Tom Smith and the Board of Ordained Ministry. I traveled all over the state preaching in churches, meeting many clergy and laity that I am now serving with, and having conversations with other young people who were considering a call to ordained ministry. I was encouraged by what I saw God doing in Kentucky and it made me even more excited about returning home and serving The United Methodist Church. The Isaiah Project also helped to relieve the financial burden of seminary education so that I began pastoral ministry with less student loan debt looming over my head. I am grateful for the opportunity the Isaiah Project gave me to pursue my call to ministry and remind me of why I felt called to serve in the Kentucky Annual Conference. —Loletuth Kalz

✠
IN MINISTRY
TOGETHER
*Your giving through
Our Mission Covenant
makes connectional stories
like this one possible.*

“And how can they preach unless they are sent? As it is written, “How
beautiful are the feet
of those who bring
good news!”

—Romans 10:15

Our Connectional Stories

BOARD OF ORDAINED MINISTRY

Isaiah Project

While I was in my second year at Duke Divinity School, I heard about the idea to provide internships for college and seminary students who felt called to ministry in The Kentucky Annual Conference of The United Methodist Church. I had participated in ministry internships before that had helped me discern my own call to ministry, but none of them had been in my home state which was where I felt called. It was exciting to know that I could serve in my home state to build relationships with other pastors and laity that I planned on being in ministry with the rest of my life.

The summer of 2009, I was in the first group of Isaiah Project Interns. My placement was in the Conference Offices working with Tom Smith and the Board of Ordained Ministry. I traveled all over the state preaching in churches, meeting many clergy and laity that I am now serving with, and having conversations with other young people who were considering a call to ordained ministry. I was encouraged by what I saw God doing in Kentucky and it made me even more excited about returning home and serving The United Methodist Church. The Isaiah Project also helped to relieve the financial burden of seminary education so that I began pastoral ministry with less student loan debt looming over my head. I am grateful for the opportunity the Isaiah Project gave me to pursue my call to ministry and remind me of why I felt called to serve in the Kentucky Annual Conference. —Loletuth Kalz

✠
IN MINISTRY
TOGETHER
*Your giving through
Our Mission Covenant
makes connectional stories
like this one possible.*

“And how can they preach unless
they are sent? As it is written, “How
beautiful are the feet
of those who bring
good news!”

—Romans 10:15

